

Session State Server stores user specific information while in use, but does not store any report data. This is used to get the users environment during callbacks for report status, loading reports for editing or execution, and general user customizable attributes of the application.

Remote executions can be setup to run on these servers to reduce load on front end web nodes.

* Includes Temp, Config, and Report Storage